

Star of the Show

THESE TEXAS HOMEOWNERS requested a design to coordinate beautifully with their Mediterranean-style abode. They also wanted a pool expansive enough to entertain large groups of guests.

In order to build the waterway, Troy Rankin of Custom Pool & Spa Concepts and his team first had to remove the existing pool, which was three decades old and poorly constructed. The original decking around the pool was one foot thick, and the former pool and deck required a bulldozer to remove it.

Once the area was excavated, the new project got under way without a hitch. To give the pool its own character, the designers incorporated several interesting features, including fiber optic stars in the floor of the pool. The overall design reflects the homeowners' personal style, as well as serves as the perfect complement to the home's muted color scheme.

A raised perimeter overflow spa with glass tile serves as a stunning focal point, and the water appears like a sheet of glass, even when the pool is not running. A large three-tier fountain was constructed behind the pool, using the same glass tile that was used on the pool and spa. The final design exudes beautiful detailing and is the perfect size and shape for any gathering.
